Chapter 1 by Wikedywik

"Billions of people in lower elevations are currently suffering traumatic headaches, strokes, and even death. Scientists are trying to find out what is causing this, but have concluded nothing so far. Our population is expected to drop down to 13 billion if this continues for another month." Brittany Sorent was reporting today's news. I could agree with her. I lived in one of the billions of sea caves, and was fifty kilometers below sea level. My neighbors had perished yesterday, and I feared I wasn't far behind. Today was the sixth day since the start of these "attacks".
